While correcting obstinate costiveness arising from want of bile, it also removes diarrhœa resulting from an overflow of vitiated biliary matter, and is recommended at this season of the year for its general bracing and tone-giving properties.

Consols in London yesterday were quoted at 99, showing no change from the previous day. French Rentes were also unchanged at 119¼. Indian Government Securities had advanced ¼ per cent to 99½ and ¼ per cent. to 85¾.

The London Produce markets show some slight changes. Calcutta Linseed has advanced 1s. via Suez and 3d. via Cape, while 75 per cent. Yellow Rapeseed, shows a decline of 6d. per cwt. Bombay Linseed on the spot is quoted at 58s., an advance of 1s. 6d., and Yellow Cawnpore Rapeseed 46s. 9d., an advance of 2d. No. 2 Club Wheat was 6d. lower. Other prices are unchanged.

Shirtings. Yarns were quoted ¼d. per lb. lower, and private telegrams report increased dulness all round.

In Liverpool the Cotton market on Friday closed dull at Thursday's rates; sales 6,000 bales, of which 700 were Surats. To-day the market closed quiet at a decline of 1-16d. per lb. in spot quotations. The day's sales were 5,000 bales, of which only 400 were Surats. For forward delivery Americans show a decline of 3-32d. per lb.

The following is our usual weekly comparison of the position of the staple for this and the past two seasons, from which it will be observed that the total visible supply shows a further decrease on last week's figure, but that the supply of Surats is increased by a further quantity of 30,000 bales:—

Bar Silver in London on Friday was quoted in the public telegrams at 52½d. per oz., an advance of 1-8th per oz. on the previous day, and this quotation was confirmed by private advices. To-day's telegrams report a decline of 1-16d. per oz.

Sterling Exchange opened here this morning strong at Friday's closing rates, and telegrams from Calcutta reported the market steady at 1s. 8 1-16d. per Rupee for demand, 1s. 8d. for telegraphic, and 1s. 8 5 16d. for 3 months' sight credit bills. At the close there was an easier feeling here, due to the reported decline in the value of Silver in London and sales were made of demand drafts for June delivery at 1s. 8d. per Rupee. As usual on Mail day the number of mercantile Bills offering has been small, and sellers generally have shown little disposition to follow up the recent advance. We quote rates the same as on Friday, viz.:—

Bank Bills, on demand	1s. 8 1-32d.	per Re.
Do. 3 months' sight	1s. 8¾d.	„
Credits, 3 do.	1s. 8 9-32d.	„
Documents, 3 do.	1s. 8 11-32d.	„
France 3 do.	2·14	„

On Calcutta rates are unchanged at Rs. 99 15-16 for demand drafts and Rs. 99 for 60 days' sight bills.

Government Paper.—There has been a good demand for the Four-and-a-half per cent loan today, and business has been done at Rs. 102 1-16, at which there are still buyers. For Fours there are sellers at Rs. 95¼ and few buyers at ¼ less.

Shares.—Bank of Bombays are in demand at Rs. 698½. In Land Companies an advance of Rs. 5 per share is reported in Colabas. Spinning and Weaving Companies' scrip is in better demand, and an advance of Rs. 40 is reported in Alliance, Rs. 15 in Dhurumseys, Rs. 20 in Hindustan, Rs. 5 in Morarjees, Rs. 15 in New Great Eastern, Rs. 5 in Orientals, Rs. 10 in Sassoons, and Rs. 10 in Soonderdass. A further advance of Rs. 15 per share is reported in Bombay-Burma Trading Company shares.

Cotton.—Dealers have been willing to submit to a further decline of Rs. 2 per candy to-day, without attracting many buyers, the day's sales having been on a very small scale. We quote:—

Good M. G. Broach	Rs. 224	per candy	Ready.
„ „	„ 222	„	all May dely.
„ Oomrawuttee	„ 213	„	Ready.
„ Dholleral	„ 215	„	„
„ „	„ 212	„	all May dely.
F. G. F. „	„ 203	„	„

Linseed is unchanged at Rs. 6-4 to Rs. 6-5 per cwt.

Rapeseed is in moderate demand at Rs. 5-12 per Rawn for Guzerat.

Freights.—There is less enquiry for ready shipment to Liverpool via Canal, and rates are reported at 40s. per ton. For London there is rather more enquiry for Seeds at 40s. per ton. For Havre the nominal quotation is still 45s. per ton. For Marseilles and Genoa rates have been reported for late May loading at 52s. 6d. per ton (Freight paid here at par).

Imports.—The market has been very weak to-day, and with the continued unfavorable accounts reaching us from Manchester, dealers are having low rates for their stocks. To arrive business is almost at a standstill.

The Bombay Gazette

MONDAY, MAY 3, 1880.

However the recommendation of the Simla Army Commission may fare at the hands of the Liberal Government who will soon be controlling the affairs of the Empire, one of the reforms advocated by the Commission is almost sure to be adopted. We have probably seen the last of that singular compound—neither fish, fowl, nor good red herring—the military civilian. And yet there is no class which has done better service to India, or has contributed more to the consolidation of the Indian Empire. We shall see no more military judges, engineers, surveyors, or forest officers. The military civilian, once so common in India, is almost unknown in any other country. His existence here was due to a state of things which is rapidly passing away. He has done good work in the past, but is no longer wanted, and will soon be numbered amongst those who have lived. The causes and some of the effects of his appearance and disappearance may be worth a little consideration. In the palmy days of old John Company, when the British Empire in India was growing with prodigious rapidity, the authorities who controlled the Company's affairs in this country had great difficulty in finding men to carry on the general duties of administration. In the earlier days of the Company's existence it was possible for an adventurer, who had landed penniless at Madras, to return to Europe as ex Governor of the Presidency with his pockets crammed with sicca rupees, to be employed in the purchase of rotten boroughs. Even in later times, where great additions were being constantly made to the country coloured red on the map, it was quite impracticable to provide for the civil administration of the newly annexed territories out of the ranks of the regular Civil Service. The only other source from which the men who were required could be drawn was the Company's army. When a war was over, the army supplied the men to administer the territory it had conquered. Thus when the Peishwa's dominions came into our hands, after the Maratha war, military collectors were appointed to administer most of the collectorates which were then created. The Company found many advantages from the employment of its military officers in this way. It was enabled to keep up a larger number of officers than the revenues of the country would have otherwise permitted, by employing them upon civil duties in times of peace. When war broke out, these military civilians were at once recalled to their regiments. They came back with ideas of drill slightly rusty perhaps, but in other respects their absence from regimental duty had enlarged their ideas, and made them better servants of a Government which called for such varied service for them. They had learnt one or two native languages; they were acquainted with the habits and customs of the natives. The existence of a reserve of officers close at hand, whose services could be obtained on short notice was a matter of very great importance in the old days when even the mails went round the Cape, and when the country was still so unsettled, that peace was never certain for a month together. By employing their officers freely on civil duties, the Company managed to keep its native regiments officered with the full compliment of twenty-six officers. In times of peace a large proportion of these officers would be absent upon civil duties, but when war broke out most of the officers soon rejoined. The system was not only an economical one, but a necessary one. In no other way could the Company have found men to carry on duties which might be temporary or permanent according to the course of events. But the system had nevertheless grave disadvantages. As the civil appointments involved more arduous work than regimental employment during peace, they necessarily carried higher pay. The pay, too, of military officers in these days was insufficient. The regimental retirement funds made heavy inroads into incomes already too small; so that, from one cause and another, there were few regimental officers under field rank, who were not more or less "in the banks." Under these circumstances it naturally became the ambition of almost all the more industrious and capable officers to obtain civil employment. Those who had the gift of appointments naturally selected the best men from amongst the applicants. The regiments were thus denuded of their best officers and were left under the charge of men who had been unable to obtain what they nearly all desired; men who were generally discontented and disappointed, often indolent and incapable. The military authorities were not slow to recognise these objections. It was necessary, however, that a reserve of officers who could be employed on general duties of administration should be kept up somehow, and it was impossible for the Government to stand the expense of the old full complement of officers if their services could not be turned to profitable account in time of peace. The success of the old irregular regiments with only two or three European officers attached to them gave rise to the idea of making the system general. Seven officers were fixed upon as the full complement for a native regiment. The success of this arrangement is still a matter of dispute, but the plan has never really had a fair trial, for a proper number of subalterns has never been forthcoming to keep the regiments supplied with their proper complement of officers. The general idea, however, seems to be that the present system will work well if a fair trial is give to it. One thing at all events is certain, that the pecuniary position of regimental officers is greatly improved. Every officer receives Staff pay, and his purse is relieved from the exorbitant calls of the old retirement fund. Another thing is equally certain, that the Staff Corps has ceased to be available as a reserve of officers, who are always at the disposal of the Government for employment on civil affairs. Such appointments must be in future supplied from other sources. Practically this has been the case for the last two or three years, and now the Simla Army Commission recommend that officers should no longer be tempted by being ever allowed to accept civil employment without first throwing up their commissions. Other causes, too, have been tending towards the same result. For most appointments a special education and training is considered necessary. If a forest officer is required, it is not enough to have a man who will work hard and can walk all day long, day after day in the sun, who is proof against fever, and who knows what a jungle life is and loves it. Now young men must be selected by competitive examination first and then trained in scientific forestry in Germany or France. As we were told by a contemporary the other day, we must have first class University graduates to teach the native mind its letters. Our engineers must be specially trained in a specially instituted college, so that in fact the demand for officers to fill civil appointments has largely diminished. Still, however, some departments remain which have hitherto been officered almost entirely from the army, but which now have to be supplied in other ways. The Police, for instance. A military training used to be considered almost a necessary qualification for a police officer, and there is no doubt that it is a decided advantage. No reserves now exist from which the Government can obtain an officer or two who knows something of the people and their languages, if any sudden demand arises, an inconvenience which was recently experienced by the Bombay Government when the Deccan dacoities were creating excitement. The Survey is another department which for some years has been filled up entirely by untrained uncovenanted men. We have nothing to say against the efficacy of any of the officers who have been appointed in this way. For many reasons it is most desirable that a certain number of appointments should remain in the hands of Government which properly qualified candidates can be provided for. In this country cases will always occur, in which men, who have served India well, leave children unprovided for. Youths qualified in every essential particular to serve the country as well as their fathers did before them, but who, from lack of opportunity and means to prepare for competition, have been unable to secure commissions in the army or the Covenanted Civil Service. Under the most favourable circumstances, parents living in India have far less opportunity of enabling their children to secure any of the open prizes, than have those fathers who can superintend their sons' education. Indian parents are, moreover, shut out from all chance of securing their children a start in England, should they elect to try their fortunes in a profession at home. There are but few appointments remaining by which Government can meet cases of real claim, and we should be very sorry to see these few appointments sacrificed to the modern idea of open competition, although such competition is generally the least objectionable method of supplying vacancies. There is one point, however, in connection with these appointments to which we must direct attention. For most of them, young men or men in the full vigour of manhood are required. When the appointments were held by military men there was no difficulty in keeping up a sufficiently rapid stream of promotion to prevent the incumbents being too old for their work. Under the present uncovenanted rules men will rarely if ever retire before they are obliged; that is, before they attain the age of fifty-five. Now a police officer aged fifty may be a very experienced man, but as a general rule men who have served up to that age in this climate are physically unfitted for appointments which require much active exertion. All men do not retain their capability for exertion like Sir Richard Temple. A block in promotion is sure to arise if the appointments which have hitherto been held by military men are filled up exclusively by uncovenanted servants. The evil should be foreseen and guarded against. The remedy which is required is evident. Either an adequate compulsory fund should be instituted to supplement the present scale of pensions, or uncovenanted servants should be compelled to deposit a percentage of their salaries in the Government Savings' Banks to accumulate as long as they retain their appointments. If one or other of these courses be not adopted the result will certainly be that in a few years there will be a complete block in promotion in all the uncovenanted services, and pressure will be brought to bear upon the Government to induce it to increase the already heavy liabilities it has incurred on account of pensions.

The judgment of the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Kemball in the celebrated Kapol Bania Pot case which we published on Saturday deserves a word of notice. The trial of this suit lasted twelve days in February last, and excited great agitation and interest in the Banian and other Gujarathi sections of the community. The value of the pots in dispute is insignificant, being not more than a few hundred rupees; but the interests involved in the decision are considered by the Hindoo community of vital importance. For on the decision depends the solution of the question whether the Gujarathi Hindus, who consist of about one thousand castes in Bombay and Gujarat, and constitute the wealthiest portion of the population of this Presidency, shall in future continue, under the arbitrary power of their respective headmen, called shetts, who claim to have the sole control with respect to the property which in common belongs to each separate caste. The constitution of the Kapol Bania caste as well as that of every other Gujarathi Hindoo caste may be likened to the constitution of English clubs. As at the head of a club there is a president, so at the head of each of these castes there is a president called shett. When there are divisions in a caste, on account of some dispute, each division has its own shett. The duties of a shett are to convene and preside over meetings of the caste, whenever any dispute affecting the interests of the caste arises, to collect subscriptions from the members of the caste for caste purposes and in general to do everything necessary for the welfare of the caste. Each Gujarathi Hindoo caste has its own funds and other property, more or less, according to the number and means of its members. The funds were raised originally for the purpose of assisting needy and invalid members; but owing to the apathy and indolence of the general body of caste men, these funds have, in most cases, virtually become the private property of the shetts and their heirs. With the one exception of our Bhatia and Kapol friends whose funds and other property have of late come under the management of Mr. Lakhmidas Khimjee and Sir Munguldas Nathubhoy respectively, the shett of no other caste has ever rendered an account of the caste funds or applied them to the objects for which they were originally provided. The more enlightened and liberal minded among the members of these several castes are, no doubt, dissatisfied with the conduct of their respective shetts, but either lack the means or the energy required to face a tedious and expensive law suits for a matter in which they have, after all, little personal interest.

The office of shett in the Kapol Bania caste in Bombay has hitherto been filled by the members of a well known family—that of Rupjee Dhunjee; and it appears that no account of the income and expenditure of the caste funds was ever rendered by any shett till Sir Munguldas Nathoobhoy assumed the shettship in 1874. The Kapol caste has been in Bombay for the last two hundred years or thereabouts, and calculating the caste income on an average of only rupees three hundred per annum, the caste funds would have at only four per cent per annum amounted during this period to several lakhs, but nobody can now say what has become of all this money. Mr. Gopaldas however, admits in his evidence that he at present holds about fifty-three thousand rupees on account of the caste. If all the former shetts of the caste had been conscientious in their stewardship an incalculable amount of good could have been done to the caste. During the shettship of Mr. Gopaldas, the caste became quite tired of the evils they had to bear, and at last the bulk of them appealed to Sir Munguldas to relieve them from their distress by consenting to accept the shettship. Sir Mungaldas complied with their request in 1874, simply with a view to regain for them their just rights. Since his appointment he has conducted the affairs of the caste on enlightened principles; and the members of the caste are now allowed full and free voice—a privilege formerly denied to them—in all matters that concern their interests. Sir Munguldas involved himself in this suit, and we learn voluntarily undertook to bear all expenses that might be incurred in respect thereto, though the caste was willing to contribute, his object being to obtain a judicial declaration of the rights and privileges of the caste in regard to the disposition of their common property. The court has not thought proper to allow costs to the defendant, but the latter will not consider that of much consequence, seeing that he has obtained an authoritative decision as to the rights of the caste in regard to their property. The moral effect of the decision of the High Court will extend far beyond the limits of the Kapol Bunia caste whose pots and pans furnished the required cause of action.

Sir James Fergusson has declined to accept the post of honorary colonel of the Bombay Volunteers. This is a sad mistake just at the outset of His Excellency's Bombay career, and we are inclined to think that it has been committed through some misapprehension. The Bombay Volunteer Corps owes its existence and its prosperity to the fostering care of Sir Richard Temple, who accepted with alacrity the honorary colonelcy which his successor so strangely declines to accept. The officers of the corps have many difficulties to overcome in keeping the regiment up to the mark in point of numbers and efficiency, and if official countenance be suddenly withdrawn, the corps may experience the fate of its predecessor and collapse. To what purpose, then, will the Army Commission Report have recommended that volunteer corps should be fostered, so that the Government may be able to diminish with safety the numbers of European regulars in the country and thus effect a needed economy in the military budget? Volunteer corps should be encouraged, not snubbed. We understand that the reason assigned for the apparently churlish refusal of the proffered colonelcy is that there are two other volunteer corps in Bombay, and that Sir James Fergusson did not wish to show any partiality. He did not wish to render two corps unhappy by

GENERAL ROSS'S ACTION.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

KABUL, MAY 1.

The native's report of General Ross's action last Sunday is greatly exaggerated. The affair was trifling. General Ross hearing that a large force of the enemy was at hand marched to meet it. At his approach they fell back and dispersed without firing a shot, General Ross returning here shortly afterwards. General Stewart is expected here to-morrow. His force will be stationed in the Logar Valley.

LATEST FROM KANDAHAR.

KANDAHAR, MAY 2.

The Poona Horse arrived yesterday.

The Wali is still in the Argastan Valley where he proposes remaining a few days before returning to Kandahar. His trip, combined with military measures taken, have had a most beneficial effect by dispersing gatherings which would have increased to a serious extent had they not been broken up promptly.

To-day about noon two men, E.B.B. H. A., Gunner Tew and Driver Hornby, were shot dead in the city near the Charsoo. From what I can ascertain it was the result of an accident and not the work of an assassin.

GENERAL STEWART AT GHAZNI.

[FROM OUR MILITARY CORRESPONDENT WITH GENERAL STEWART'S FORCE.]

GHAZNI, VIA KABUL, MAY 1.

GHAZNI, April 24.—On the 22nd General Stewart with a strong escort visited the city and found the fort in a dilapidated condition. Ten guns were found. Nearly all the shops were shut. Supplies are very scarce, and the native troops and followers are on half rations.

GENERAL STEWART'S LATEST VICTORY.

In the afternoon the Cavalry scouts reported a large gathering of Ghazis and Suleiman Khels at some villages six miles from the camp.

On the 23rd the following troops under General Palliser were detailed to dislodge the enemy:—General Barter's Brigade, 16th Rifles, 15th Sikhs, 25th Punjabis, with 6 horse artillery and 6 mountain guns, 1st and 2nd Cavalry and 2nd Sikhs. General Hughes' Brigade with 6 field guns in support near camp.

Major Clifford with four companies of the 19th Punjabis occupied the citadel and closed the fort gates.

At 3-30 a.m. General Palliser advanced to the attack and found the enemy occupying a strong position with flanks resting on two loopholed villages one thousand yards apart.

The artillery shelled the position for three hours.

General Palliser considering the position too strong to be taken by direct attack, tried to draw the enemy on by retiring, but the ruse failed.

This news was heliographed to General Stewart, who was with the supporting brigade. He immediately ordered up a wing of the 59th and 3rd Goorkhas under Lyster to reinforce and finally followed with the rest of the troops. A general advance was ordered, General Barter against the right and General Hughes against the left villages, flanked by guns and Cavalry. The attack was a great success. The enemy evacuated the villages and fled. The enemy's loss is between four and five hundred. The action was mainly an artillery one; the 18 guns having fired nine hundred and seventy rounds. The infantry seldom came within range. Our loss was consequently trifling, three killed and ten wounded.

They were dislodged from the hills with a loss of forty killed. Our loss—one Goorkha killed, three Goorkhas and a private of the 9th Foot wounded, all slightly. The roads through Maidan and Logar are still infested by gangs of Ghazis and marauders who stop and search all passengers.

WE notice from a Madras paper that the "Our Boys" Company, playing there, has been strengthened by Miss Agnes Birchenough, who was to appear on the 1st in Le Lecon d'Amour.

THE spring harvest in the N. W. P. is said to be "almost everywhere equal to the full average standard." The spring harvest in the Central Provinces is also reported to be a full one.

THE appeal of Dr. Collyer alias Hahman, convicted by the three magistrates at Calcutta, of cheating and criminal misappropriation of certain jewellery, has been rejected by the High Court.

THE death of the only child of the ex-Gaekwar of Baroda, a boy of about 6 years of age, at Nungumbaukum on the afternoon of Thursday is announced by a Madras paper. His remains were cremated, according to custom, on the same night.

THE Englishman's P. D. made a funny mistake in its telegram that, "it is reported that another Winter Palace explosion has been arrested." It should be: "It is reported that the author, &c.," and that journal accordingly corrects the mistake in its next issue.

ON and after 2nd May the Ruk-Sibi section of the Kandahar State Railway will be open for coaching traffic only, between Ruk and Shikarpore, Humaon, Jacobabad, Mittree and Sibi. The trains will run in connection with the present mail trains from Kotree and Mooltan.

WITH a view to provide means for the prevention of frauds, similar to those practised in Moorshedabad by the late education clerk, the Government of Bengal has, we hear, issued orders that all officers drawing up bills are responsible for writing the amount in words in full as well as in figures. It is not merely the countersigning officer who has to do this.

Brahmo Public Opinion marks his satisfaction at the advent to power of Mr. Gladstone, by printing a long article under the heading "The Edifice Crowned" in a red border. The article which is extracted in full in the Indian Daily News. It is a matter of moment, says our contemporary, to understand why the sentiment of the natives is so decidedly Liberal at this time.

SAYS the Delhi Gazette:—For the first time in her history the ruler of India will be a member of the Church of Rome. Good Catholics will look upon that event as a step towards the realisation of their fondest hopes, good Protestants as a step in the opposite direction, but with that small section of the community, whether Protestant or Catholic, who are truly devout, the appointment will not be looked upon with disfavour.

THE new editor of the Bombay Church Chronicle, which has again passed under fresh management, in his introduction, contents himself with expressing a hope, in which he feels sure all his constituents will join, that the journal may continue to maintain and, if possible, increase its present efficiency and its popularity with churchmen generally, not only of this province, but also at home.

BRITISH BURMAH is likely to have a High Court, it appears, and proposals will shortly be submitted to the Government of India for its establishment. The Bill which is now being drafted will be framed on the lines of that under which the High Court of the Punjab was constituted, which Court the proposed High Court will in all respects resemble. It is said the Court will consist of a Chief Justice with two puisne Judges, Registrar, Deputy-Registrar, and other subordinate officers.

A SPECIAL telegram from Allahabad to the Englishman states:—"On and after the 2nd May the Ruk-Sibi section of the Kandahar State Railway opens for coaching traffic only between Ruk, Shikarpur, Humaon, Jacobabad, Mittri, and Sibi. The trains will run in connection with the present mail trains from Kotri and Multan. The Board of Revenue of the N. W. P. have issued a new series of instructions for the enforcement of the Licence Tax Act in accordance with Act VI. of 1880."

SAYS the Englishman the announcement that Lord Lytton leaves India in a fortnight, will be received with surprise, and, we think, with general regret. Only the most imperious circumstances could justify a Viceroy leaving his post at a crisis like the present; and unless such circumstances can be shown to exist, we fear it will be felt that the public interests have been lightly sacrificed. In the absence of further explanation, we can only suppose that this course must have been forced upon him by the action of others, or by other events beyond his control."

THE Indian Mail relates a somewhat peculiar instance of charity:—"Messrs. Leese and Co., a firm of local undertakers and sculptors, by an advertisement published in the Eurasian and Anglo-Indian Advocate, notify their willingness to 'bury Eurasian paupers gratis.' The first funeral of the kind took place the other day, the coffin, hearse, bearers, &c., for the burial of a female pauper named Coleman, in St. Patrick Oratory, having been supplied free of all cost by the firm in question." But if the money so spent, were applied to the living instead, would it not do more good?

AT a meeting last week of the Ceylon Chamber of Commerce, the following resolution was adopted:—"That, as interruptions in the telegraphic communication between Ceylon and India are attended with very great inconvenience and loss to the mercantile community, and as there can be no permanent assurance against the recurrence of these interruptions, whilst there is only the existing single land line between Colombo and Manaar, the Ceylon Government be asked to co-operate with the Government of India in laying a new telegraphic cable between Colombo and Tuticorin, instead of renewing the one between Manaar and Rameswaram, now worn out."

IT is, perhaps, not generally known that there are two quarters at Matheran (each containing two rooms with servants' quarters) available for sick officers who may proceed there for change of air. Officers not on medical certificate and civilians are also permitted to occupy these quarters on condition of their being vacated when required for the accommodation of sick officers. The scale of rent for each set of quarters is as follows:—

	Per mensem.	Per diem.
Subaltern	Rs. 15	8 ans.
Captain	„ 20	12 „
Field Officers	„ 45	Rs. 1 8
Non-military	„ 60	„ 2-0

Further particulars can be obtained on application to the Superintendent of Matheran.

THE Madras Times says, in a leading article, that "the appointment of the Marquis of Hartington to the office of Secretary of State for India can be only described as a disappointment." Further on it says:—"We never thought that Mr. Gladstone would show himself particularly happy in the choice of a Cabinet, but scarcely imagined that he could have been guilty of two such appointments as those of Lord Hartington to the India Office and Lord Northbrook to the Admiralty." And concludes with commencing so indifferently well, and remembering the thorny paths before the Cabinet, we think it cannot be very long before there is another change of Ministers, or, at all events, a change of Mr. Gladstone."

THE Bombay Guardian is sorely tried by the appointment of the Marquis of Ripon to the Viceroyalty: "The Marquis of Ripon, whose reception into the Roman Catholic Church in 1874 excited so much attention at the time, and who subsequently led a band of English devotees to worship 'Our Lady of Lourdes,' has been appointed Viceroy of India, and is coming out immediately. This beginning of the new order of things does not look very promising, though we know not that the cause of true religion will lose anything more by such an appointment than by the appointment of a rationalistic or self-idolizing Protestant. The theory is that the head of this dependency of the English crown must be colourless in religion, as regards administrative measures. Our Romish friends are of course delighted, and expect that a wide and effectual door will thus be opened to them."

WE (the Civil and Military Gazette) note that our correspondent at Jallalabad anticipates no disturbances among the tribes at present, as the crops are ready to be cut and the tribes dare not risk open hostility, as it would involve the loss of their harvest. But the Afghans' difficulty should be our opportunity. There are many tribes to be punished thereabouts, and if we wait and wait till they have made themselves comfortable for the season they will never perhaps at all perform the mysterious operation known among politicals as "coming in." Why should we not fire their crops if they do not now and at once send in hostages and make a real submission? It is absurd to sit waiting merely because they happen to be quiet at the present moment for purposes of their own. Our troops have nowhere moved yet without being fired on. General Arbuthnot's force had actually to retreat like General Roberts's within its camp walls, and this further movement of his "back from Murdadnund" to the high road will indicate to the tribes that we cannot even keep in the open.

Native Opinion approves of Sir James Fergusson: "The first impression made by Sir James is very favourable, and we heartily hope that this impression will continue to remain throughout the period His Excellency rules over us. Though a conservative by principle we hope Sir James will do his best to forward the legitimate aspirations and claims of the ruled and heal the many a deep scar left by the Temple rule." The journal in question also approves of the late Acting Governor's conduct while in office:—"The Hon'ble Mr. Ashburner deserves a good word. During his incumbency he did his best to make himself familiar with natives. He had time appointed at which natives could go and see him—and perhaps open their hearts to him. He also honoured some of the leading native gentlemen with his visits. This change of demeanour and the degree of courtesy and kindness with which he received and paid visits to natives was very marked and unusual, and we did not see such urbanity and condescension during the three preceding regimes. Sir James Fergusson might well imitate the example set him." But Native Opinion is hard on the late Governor's address to the electors of East Worcestorshire. "Sir Richard's speech is one tissue of misrepresentation."

THE Kandahar News of 21st April, says:—"We have heard a few further particulars which may interest our readers, regarding the attack on the Dubrai post. We are wrong in saying that the two men sent out by Major Waudby did not return. They came back before dark, and reported that they had seen nothing. One was transport jemadar, named Sharbut Khan, who has been employed on the road for more than a year, and knows the locality and the other the jemadar of the local levies. About 10 p. m., when a noise was heard in the hills, they were sent out again to reconnoitre. They had been gone but a short time when they were heard to shout, "Look out, the Ghazis are on you." They rode back towards the enclosure, warned those inside it, and seeing that it was hopeless to contend against such odds, they rode off to Abdur Rahman, bringing news of the attack. Information has been received of the villages from which the men came, and Sirdar Shere Ali Khan's men are in hot pursuit. Major Waudby, and those who fell with him at Dubrai, have been buried at that place. General Brooke is now at Dubrai and has taken command of the troops. The telegraph line which was all right from 7 p. m. to midnight yesterday (the 19th April) is interrupted again. We have, however, fortunately received some of our telegraphic news."

THE Bombay Review:—The worst we know of Mr. Goschen is that he has declined the splendid offer of Viceroyalty. The incident is one of those which prompts the doubt whether the value of India to England and the responsibilities which its possession lays upon Englishmen are fully realised by our foremost public men. The new member for Ripon feels the spur of noble minds; but his ambition must have the European stage for its arena, and he now lacks patience for the slower course and less conspicuous task of Indian administration. Thus it comes to pass that India has to make the best of a much slighter, but still highly estimable statesman. Earl de Grey and Marquis of Ripon, formerly the "Christian Socialist," Viscount Goderich—leaves the pleasant paths of an English peer's career, and comes to do his best for this land and its peoples. There is in his case no suspicion of impecuniosity prompting the sacrifice of personal case and comfort he is making. Sincerity is a marked characteristic of our Viceroy designate, and this is a quality of priceless value. As in the case of the new viceroy or Bombay, he was in the India Office at this stage in his career when deep impressions would be made. These, doubtless, have been carried forward through the vicissitudes of his later official career; and we doubt not that he will already have found much Indian knowledge come back to him that he will now seek to apply under a weighty sense of responsibility.

THE LOSS OF THE VINGORLA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—In your paper of to-day I notice a letter from "Inquisitor" reverting to the loss of the Vingorla, mentioning especially the question of the soil pipe and its connections, and pointing to the sister ship Akola as being likely to afford some clue towards solving the mystery.

As the Akola was last evening placed in a dry dock at this Dockyard, I think in justice to the British India Company and the officers that I should state I have this day made an examination of the soil pipe and its fittings of that ship, and, assuming it to be as stated, similar in all respects to the soil pipe of the Vingorla, I have much pleasure in stating that the thin pipe and its connections (which are wholly of thick cast iron with the flanges cast in the same piece as the pipe itself) is an exceeding good fitting and will compare in strength to that portion of the structure to which it is attached. Its discharge through the side is some 14 inches above the said load draft of the Vingorla when leaving Bombay, and I have no hesitation in saying that in my opinion it is next to impossible that the foundering of the ship was in any way due to this fitting. I cannot but think that the Vingorla received some injury under water either at her moorings or shortly after leaving the harbour.—I am, &c.,

THE KENNEDY SEA FACE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—Last year a good deal of correspondence took place regarding the opening of the Kennedy Sea Face ride during the monsoon. No doubt there are many days when the ride would not be available, and I am quite sure no riding-man would wish to use the ride when too wet; at the same time there are very many days when a ride there would be most enjoyable. I would therefore suggest, as the Executive Engineer is himself a riding-man, that he should use his discretion when to close this beautiful ride.

A QUESTION OF NOVEL HOMINES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—Allow me to call the attention of your learned daily contemporary to the fact that in classical Latin corpore vile is not usually found as a nominative case (or indeed as any other, though vili is), and that amongst scholars there is a considerable balance of opinion in favour of writing novi homines instead of the editorial noves homines, though the latter of course looks more symmetrical. I have never seen a copy of the ancient Acta Diurna, so cannot say that these were not the usual forms in Roman journals, but my impression is that they were not.

MAHABLESHWAR.—We have ascertained that there is not a room to be had at Mahableshwar. Gentlemen now en route to the hill have been obliged to take up tents. This is quite unusual, and is probably owing to the early and great heat, or to Sir Richard Temple being in East Worcestershire.—Deccan Herald.

WILSON'S CIRCUS.

A WELL pleased audience broke up at the Circus last Saturday night after attending the joint benefit of Herr Max and Mrs. Schumann. The excellent programme was executed with talent and the spectators were loud in their applause, which attained a very high pitch when Mr. Wilson addressed a few words from the ring expressive of his successful tours through India and eulogistic of the appreciation of an Indian public, for to-night will be the last of the Circus performances here for some time. H. E. the Governor will attend the Circus this evening.

"I HAVE been for some past years great sufferer from [illegible] friend kindly sent me a box of Grimault's Indian Cigarettes; I found them quite of service, and am now agreeable, and less irritating than the other preparations of that kind hitherto known. W. LITTLE, Manchester."
